GIVE CHILDREN A BETTER FUTURE THROUGH CREATIVE EDUCATION!

Royal Talens Foundation x Catawiki x SOS Children's Villages

Creativity is an essential part of being a child, wherever we live. From 3-12 June, we are supporting SOS Children's Villages to spread the power of creativity around the world with our first ever online Art Auction. In cooperation with CataWiki, the Art Auction will raise funds for creative therapy, so children get the outlet for expression and creativity they need to grow and thrive.

SOS Children's Villages works in 120 countries across the globe, including flashpoints such as Ukraine, Russia, Belarus and Poland.

30 brilliant artists will participate in the Art Auction, with names like Nard Kwast, Ghazi Baker and Jonna Hyttinen donating their masterpieces to support this powerful creative therapy project.

SUPPORTING CREATIVITY IN SOS CHILDREN'S VILLAGES

Art can play a pivotal role in trauma recovery. It's also a fundamental and transformative aspect of education, offering children and adults alike a real chance to follow their dreams, talents and imagination. Together, Royal Talens Foundation and SOS Children's Villages want to make a major contribution to creative learning for vulnerable children and young adults. With the funds raised by the Art Auction, SOS Children's Villages will collaborate with professional therapists and teachers to give creative therapy and art classes to the children and young adults who need it most. By building a long-term partnership with SOS Children's Villages, our mission is to ensure that children and young adults everywhere have access to creative learning.
